

Hello, my name is Valentína Sivošová. I am a pianist and a music teacher. I come from Bratislava, where I studied the piano and music pedagogy at the conservatory. I teach the piano at the state music school Modra and at my home in Modra Harmonia.

Throughout my career I've led pianists since their early childhood to the advanced professionals. Many of my former students have succeeded in their music paths, have continued studying at the conservatory and are making music for the rest of their lives.

We are musicians family, my daughter Nina is a flutist, currently active both performing and teaching in Belgium. We were playing together as a mother & daughter duo all over the world, performing on various festivals and concerts across Europe and United States. Formerly, she was teaching piano and arts lessons in Benjamin. I took the class after her in 2016, when she's decided to leave first to Prague and afterwards to Belgium.

I am looking forward to guide your little ones while exploring an enchanting world of language of tones and provide them with the experience of new horizons of their beings in the most playful and kind way. Combining my life long pedagogical experience together with my love for music creates an enjoyable environment for raising new piano stars!
